You who are on the road
Must have a code
That you can live by.
And so
become yourself.
Because the past is just a good-bye.

Teach your children well.
Their Father's hell
did slowly go by.
And feed them on your dreams.
The one they picks.
The one you know by.
Don't you ever ask them why.
If they told you, you would die.
So just look at them and sigh.
And know they love you.

And you of tender years
Can't know the fears
That your elders grew by.
And so, please help them
with your youth.
They seek the truth
before they can die.

Teach your parents well.
Their children's hell
will slowly go by.
And feed them on your dreams.
The one they picks.
The one you know by.
Don't you ever ask them why.
If they told you, you would die.
So just look at them and sigh.
And know they love you.

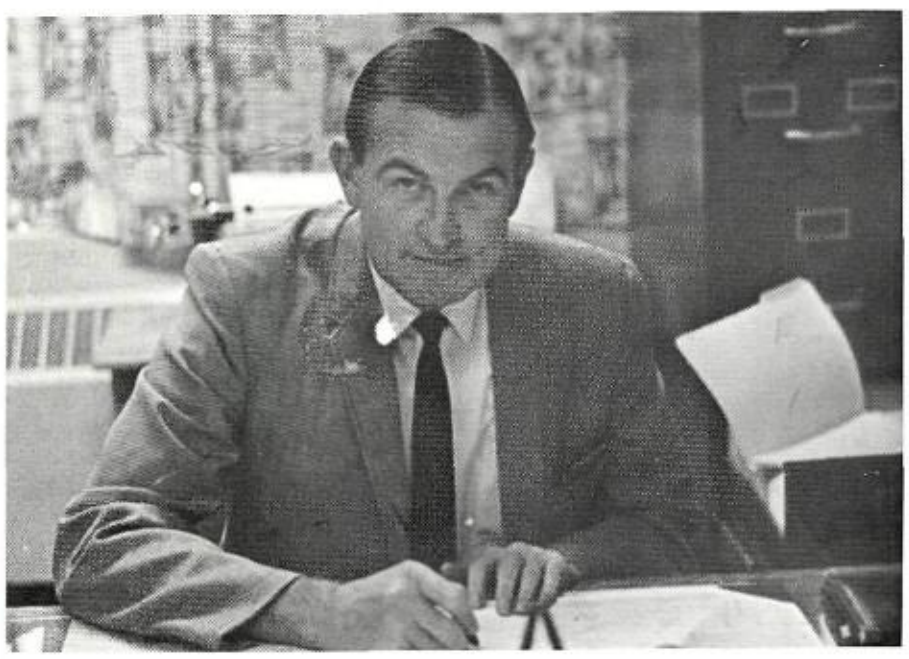
F.D.S.H. Welcomes New Principal's Ideas With Open Arms



Mr. Robert Bargman, new principal for FDSH, moved to F.D. from California. One of the new ideas he brought with him was the "mini-course". Experts were brought in on Saturdays to speak on any subject the students were interested in. Another project was the revision of the school handbook. The new one included pictures, a schedule of events, rules and general information about the school and curriculum. In the field of exchange programs, Mr. Bargman set one up within the U.S. where students could spend a week at a school in another state. "Project Community-Communications" was set up where families of high school students hosted a get-together once a month. During school hours parents were invited to visit classes or talk to teachers. Cross-age tutoring was also introduced and this involved both the high school and elementary level. Later in the year, Mr. Bargman organized a "Round Table", founded to give students a chance to talk about problems and get to know their administration better. In the spring an activity open house was held, giving the students a chance to display their achievements.

Forrest Marquis, vice-principal, assisted Mr. Bargman in his vast duties. He was in charge of attendance, curriculum, and the duties of discipline and supervision.

Vernon "Dutch" Huseman, director of athletics, supervised the entire sports program for grades K-12. He scheduled games, hired officials, purchased equipment, and filed reports with the I.H.S. Athletic Association.

Dr. Earl Berge administered the policies of the entire school system. The school board set teachers' salaries and planned the future.

Counselors Assist Seniors in Making Future Plans

The five guidance counselors assisted students with their schedules and informed them of college-entrance tests, scholarships, and other information important to their futures.

The office staff aided the administration by keeping permanent records and transcripts, drawing up attendance sheets, mimeographing, and handling other office business.

The students received assistance in research and reading by the librarians. The librarians kept track of all books, newspapers, and periodicals which flowed through the library, and were prepared with information for the teachers and students.

The nurse's office was moved nearer to the office to provide more space. The nurse administered first aid and kept health records.

New courses as well as new instructors were added to the mathematics department this year. The new teachers include Mr. William George who taught Geometry and Mr. Clyde Gray, Mr. Roland Anderson, and Mr. John Atkins who all taught General Math courses. Calculator Math was combined with the General Math course this year making a more comprehensive program.

Students taking Algebra I and II, Geometry, and General Math enjoyed new textbooks this year.

A new Biology course was offered in Blue Biology this year. It was "The Atom Approach" and taught by Mr. Murray. This course is the molecular approach to Biology.

Other charges in the science department this year include two teachers; Mr. Don Miller who taught Biology II and Mr. Clyde Gray who taught Chemistry.

Miss Mary Boxwell, Latin instructor in FDSH for forty-one years, retired in June this year. Miss Boxwell earned her B.A. degree in Grand Island College in Nebraska and her M.A. at the University of Iowa. Honors and awards included a summer scholarship for the American Academy in Rome and one for the University of Wisconsin. In 1965 she was elected Fort Dodge Teacher of the Year. During her teaching career at FDSH thirteen Latin trophies were won for nationwide Latin examinations. She was also elected Iowa Chairman of Classical Association of Midwest and Southern United States. Her future plans include travel. She has already been to Europe several times and has also been to Asia. In her travels she did not exclude the United States where she has visited many states including Alaska and Hawaii.

The music department provided opportunities for students interested in performing and competing. The marching band played at football games and the pep band at basketball games. Concerts were given by the choirs and orchestra, and in assemblies given throughout the year, students were entertained by the A'Capella and concert band. Music theory class was added to the department and was taught by Mr. James Huffman.

All three years of art were taught by Mrs. Eloise Halm. First year students learned the basics of art, and second year students concentrated on pottery and lettering. Third year students worked on individual projects.

In the past, students have been offered three years of French, four of Spanish, and two of German. This year a third year of German was added. Language clubs allowed students to practice the cultures of their countries.

Three new teachers were in charge of the Special Education Department this year. They were Mr. Tim Connally, Miss Kay VanVickle, and Mr. Doug Boeckman. The three grades included thirty-six students in total who took four regular courses; Health Science, English, Math, and Social Studies. Juniors spent half a day at school attending classes and during the afternoon they went to the Rehabilitation Center. Senior students were on the co-op program.

New Social Studies courses for 1970-71, Western Civilization, Contempory World Issues, World Geography and Psychology, were offered to Junior and Senior students. A study of the roots of western society from ancient times to the study of contemporary Europe is contained in Western Civilization. Contemporary World Issues examines the problems and conflicts facing nations and groups today. World Geography investigates the patterns and cultures of the world's people. An exploration into the science of human behavior helped to make psychology an interesting new course.

This year students enjoyed choosing elective English courses. Because they were only a semester long, a larger variety was offered. Courses added this year included Modern Short Story and Poetry which emphasized the study of modern short stories and poetry reflecting important literary developments of contemporary American writing. World Literature, also a new course, was designed for the above average student who was seeking a greater understanding about people of other parts of the world. The new Grammar course was designed for the high school student who felt he did not have a proper background in fundamental grammar, and the Novel course was designed to acquaint students with major novelists and their influences on man and his society. Each class chose the novels they studied.

New English teachers were also added to FDSH. They were: Mrs. Dorothey Carlson, Miss Elizabeth Kiesau, Miss Tracy Miller, Miss Rochelle Rentschler, Mrs. Margaret Stallkamp, and Miss Cathryn Winter.

The Industrial Arts department added five new courses to their curriculum. Engineering Graphics involved such areas as drafting and industrial processes. Building Trade placed emphasis on house construction. Power Mechanics was designed to develop an insight into principles applied in power-producing machines, and Basic Electricity explored electricity and its effects. Graphic Arts was an introductory course in the field of printing. New teachers in the department were Mr. Francis Eberle, Mr. Harold Ryun and Mr. Glen Yenger.

Study of the Family Unit Included in New Home Ec Course

Important to all students some time during their school years is Drivers' Education. This year simulators were purchased which provided students with realistic driving situations without the risks. John Bristol and Dan Delaney were new teachers who joined the department this year.

Business education helped motivate students in business skills. General business, general sales, bookkeeping, and two years of typing as well as personal typing were offered. Secretarial skills were emphasized in the two years of shorthand which were offered. Through distributive education and office programs, seniors receive training by working part time.

Home Economics gave students opportunities to develop domestic talents. A new course was open this year to Junior and Senior girls wishing to discuss problems they will encounter after leaving school. The areas of concentration are: personal living, the all important question of money, and how to regulate finances.

DECA and VICA Combine School Curriculum With On-The-Job Training

Programs designed for high school students to learn and prepare for the world of work were Vocational Industrial Clubs of America (VICA) and Distributive Education Clubs of America (DECA). Sponsors of these clubs were Mr. Lloyd Patterson and Mr. Fred Moss, respectively.

VICA members attended school half a day and worked the other half. All participants of the club belonged to the National and State VICA Clubs. Various activities included the Leadership Training Conference in Des Moines, the Employer-Employee Banquet, and the annual spring picnic.

DECA students were instructed in the distribution and marketing of goods. This club too, went to school half the day, and had on-the-job training the other half. DECA sponsored bake sales, concession stands, and display windows.

A cooperative vocational program which required on-the-job training was Office Education. The girls who participated in this program learned basic office procedures in class and applied them in office situations. The club advisor was Miss Joan Harden.

Bake sales, the selling of address labels, and attendance of the Officers Training Conference at Iowa Falls were the activities of O.E. The highlight of the year was the Employer-Employee Banquet given to honor the employers.

An active organization in its fifth year was Audio-Visual Club. The purpose of the A.V. club was to help the faculty in any way they could with audio-visual equipment. Members set up film projectors, tape recorders, and recently the television equipment. The ten members were advised and instructed by Mr. Marvin Berg.

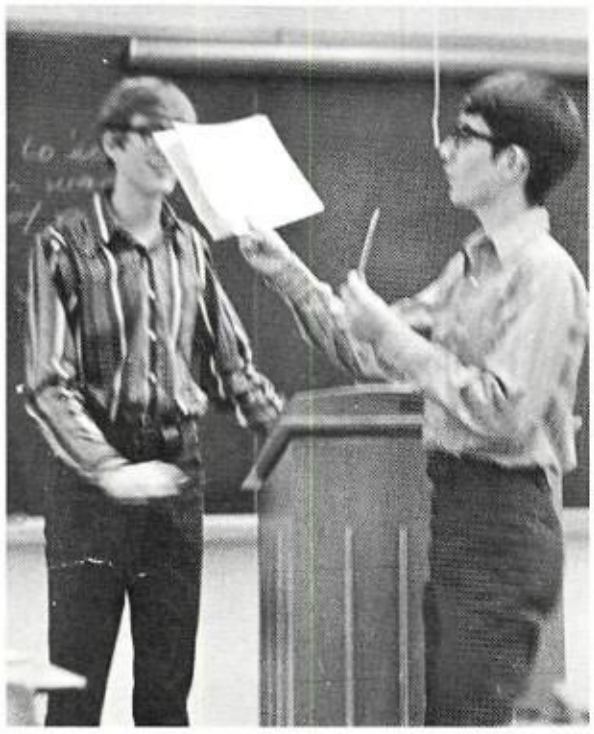
One of the busiest organizations at FDSH was Debate. After spending a great deal of time researching, the debaters went on many debate trips. The debate topic for 1970-71 was Resolved: Federal Government should establish, finance, and administer programs to control air and water pollution in the U. S.

In debate, there are different levels. They are varsity cross-examination, second and third year, and novice. Among the various areas in which they partake are radio speaking, original oratory and extemporaneous speaking.

The Dodger debaters were under the new leadership of Mr. Roger Snell. Among the activities they took part in were the Dodger Invitational, Districts, N.F.L., and I.F.L. During the summer of 1970, Fletch Newsum spent five weeks researching at Northwestern University in Ill.



Medical Careers Expands Its Knowledge Of Medical World

An active and informed club about the medical world this year was the Medical Careers Club. Mrs. Bonita Proeschold was the advisor, while the Medical Auxiliary sponsored it.

The activities of the year started with their chili supper initiation. Other important programs of the club included a Christmas program for under-privileged children, a spring luncheon at the hospital, several guest speakers, and the Powderpuff Girls' Football Game for the March of Dimes Fund.

The club's activities included sponsoring a bake sale, selling ghost policies at Halloween, painting the interior of the Mission-in-the-Valley, and selling Fun and Food stamps.

The publicity, project, membership, and constitution committees helped organize the club. The chairmen of these committees were members of the board of directors.

A seminar at Greenlake, Wisconsin, sponsored by Civitan International, was held during August. Five members of the club were chosen to attend by the local Senior Civitan.

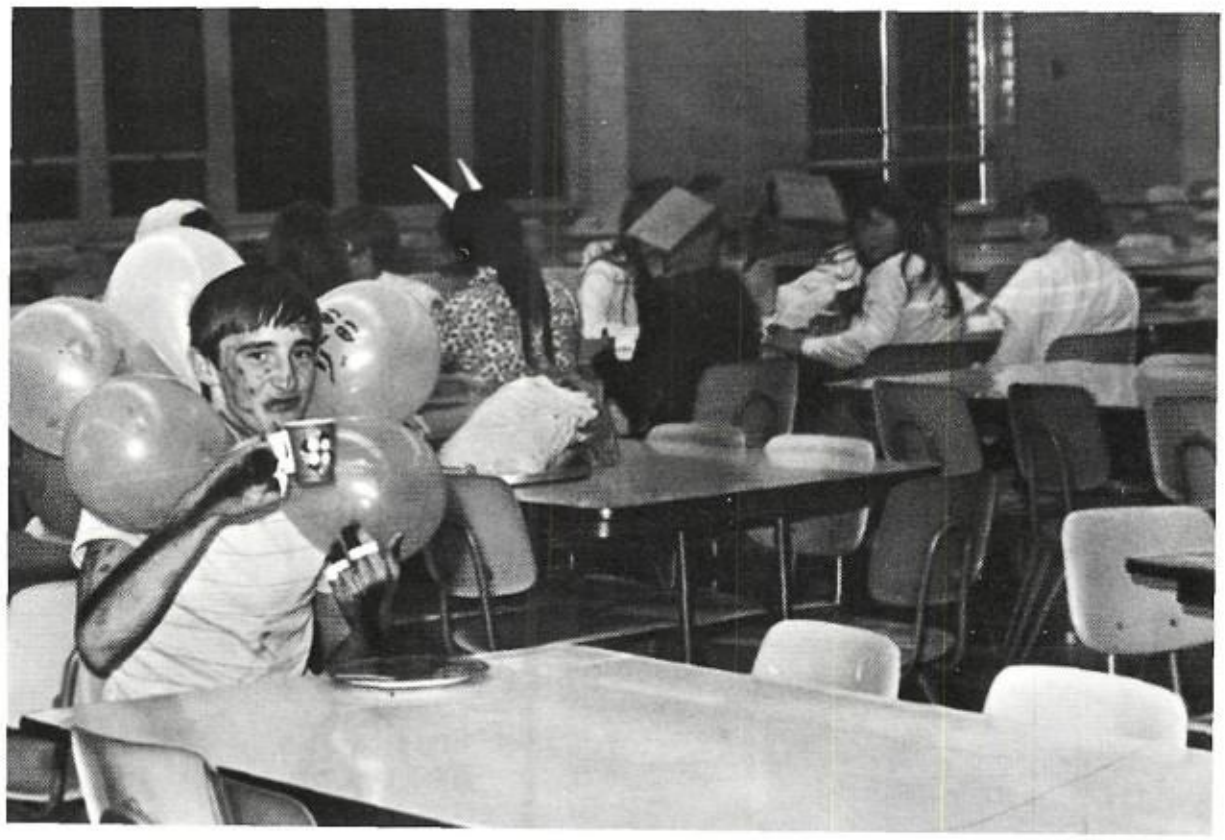
The S.P.Q.R. means Senate and Roman People and consists of third and fourth year Latin students. This year there were two clubs, the Senior S.P.Q.R. and the newly organized Junior S.P.Q.R. The advisor was Miss Mary Boxwell.

Early in the year, a potluck dinner was held to initiate new members. The dinner climaxed a nine week probation period for the prospective members.

The annual Roman Dinner in May was the big project. The club invited all other Latin students to attend. Each person was required to be in costume and the program consisted of Roman food, Latin songs, and original skits.



Boys' Booster Club and Key Club Reorganize

This year Key Club, which was formerly active at FDSH, was reorganized with Mr. Don Jacobsen as advisor. It was a club which strove to serve the community and school.

Different activities they sponsored this year were a tape dance, a basketball game with the Kiwanis Club, Rat Race Week, and a tricycle marathon.

Boys' Booster Club created and stimulated school spirit. They cheered at all the games, made a Homecoming float, and put on skits for the assemblies. Brad Turner was president and Mr. Doug Winebright was the club's sponsor.

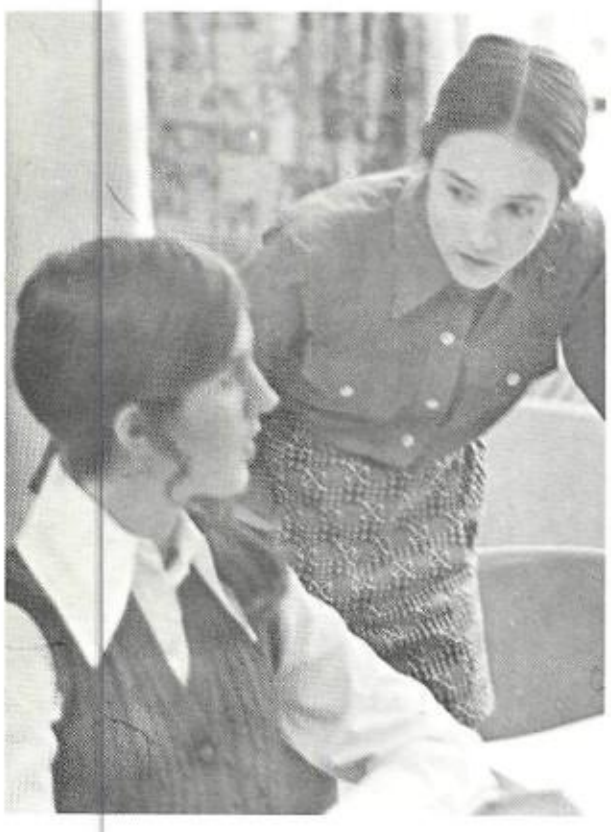
Publications Strive to Reflect And Inform School



One of the more industrious organizations this year was the Big Dodger Staff. They met each day during fourth period and many nights after school to complete the yearbook. A trip to the Iowa High School Press Association State Convention at Ames was made to learn the techniques of creating a better yearbook.

A new addition to the Big Dodger was made by having individual pictures of the underclassmen. Also new this year was the publishing company and a new, more modern style for the book. One hold-over idea from last year was the 9 x 12 size book. This year's editor was Barb Beers and the advisor was Mrs. Margaret Stallkamp.

The Little Dodger staff with a seven-man editorial board put out the school paper twice a month. Their goals were to reflect and analyze the attitudes of the student body and provide an outlet for student expression, as well as print what was happening around school.

This was the first year the paper was printed at the high school instead of at the Messenger Printing Company. Mr. Johnson's printing classes were in charge of this.

Pictures and art work made the paper more enjoyable to read and helped to project its purpose. Kris Beer was this year's editor and John Hagge was the artist.

Future Teachers' Club drew many girls who were interested in teaching. To broaden their knowledge of education, the members participated in Future Teacher's Day at ICCC. The girls toured the campus and attended classes. The Delta Kappa Gamma Sorority of teachers held a tea for all FTA members. Visitation Day was held to give the girls a chance to teach an elementary class. This provided an opportunity to see if the girl was interested in teaching. Advisors were Mrs. Mary Ann Pedersen and Mrs. Lucille Gibb.

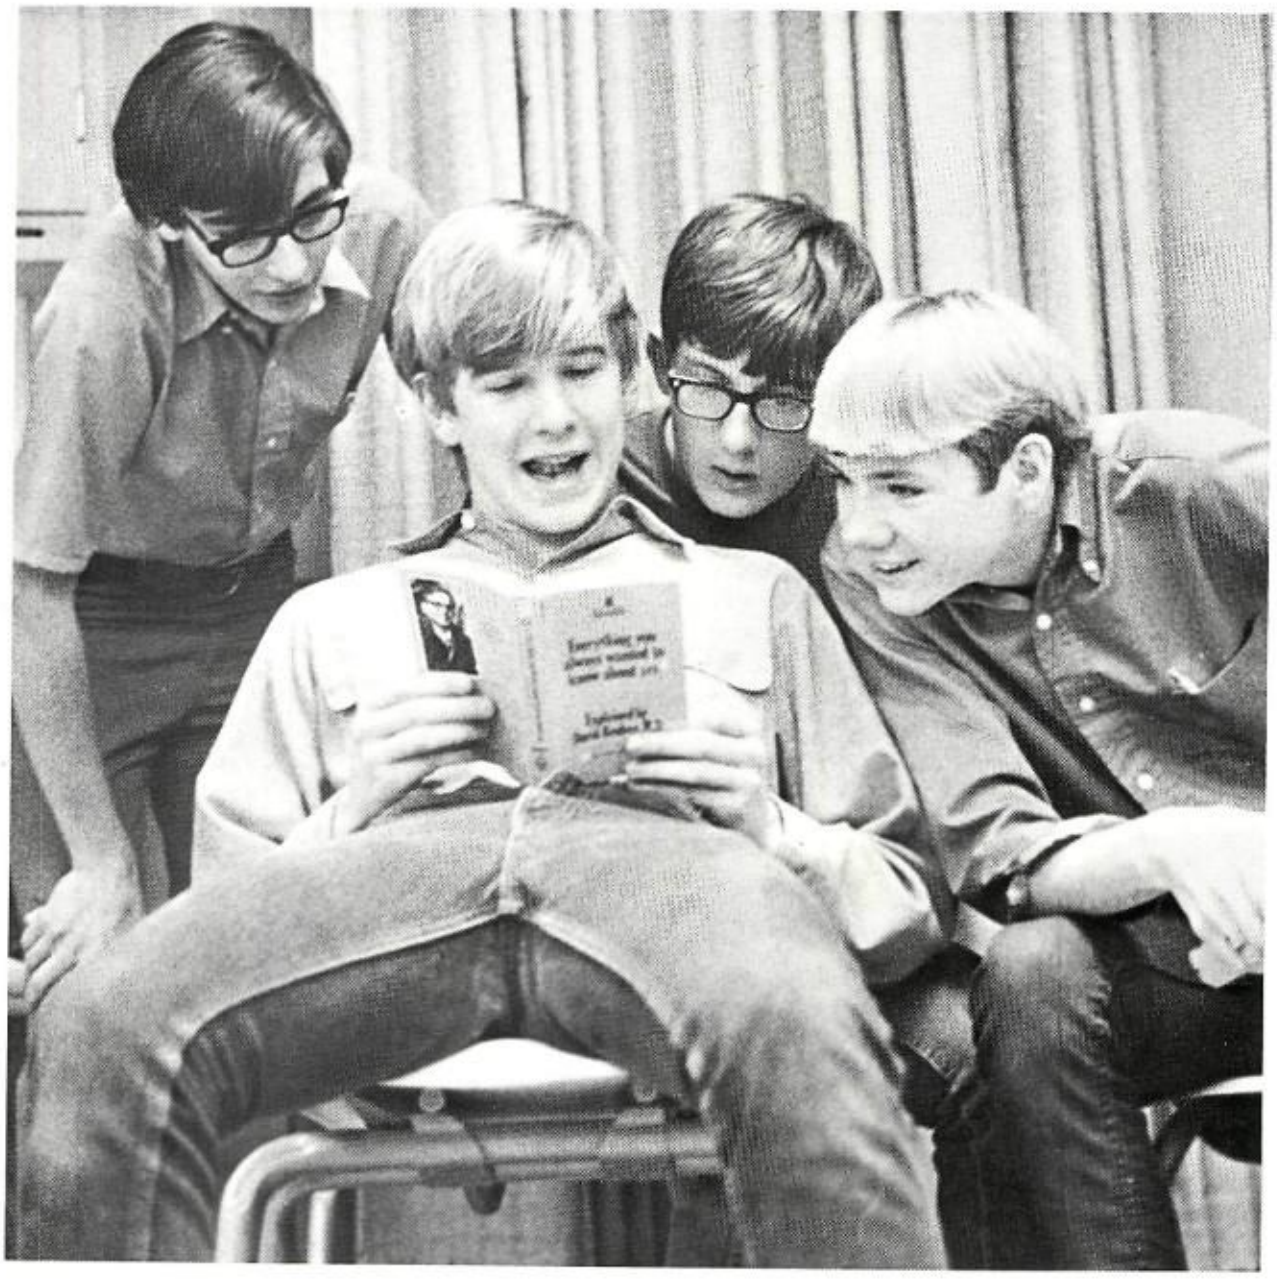
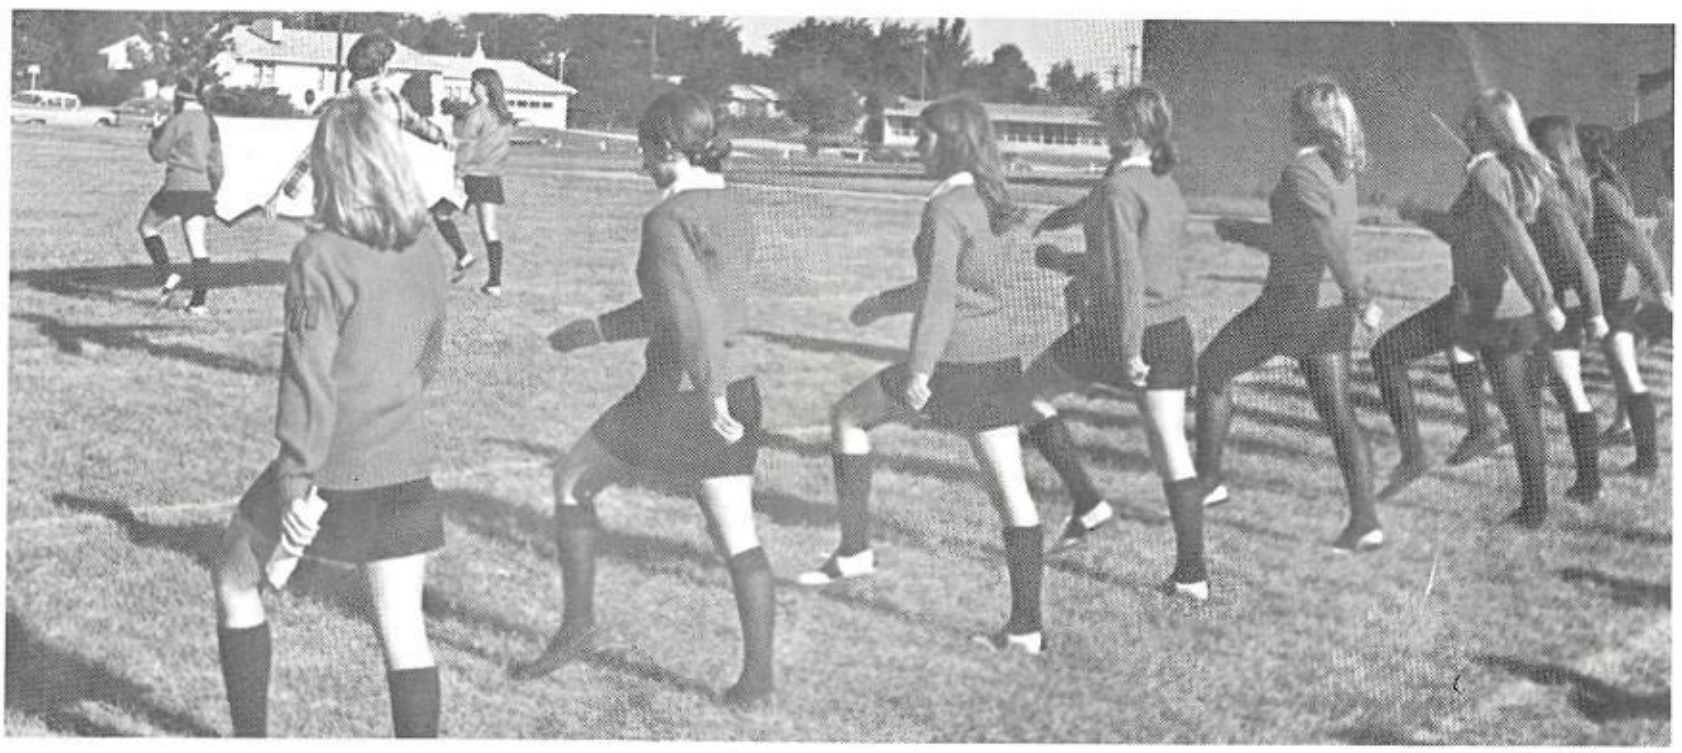
Our road of life is wider now
And the bend in the distance
Could bend to an even wider one.
Remember student life and the narrow road
You followed with your friends.
And that special friend . . .
Hours of laughter . . .
And plans . . .
And tears . . .
Memories but not hangups.
Lengthen your stride
To cover the wide road.





Kathy,
To the girl next door → (lockers) Glad you moved in cause I didn't have any body else to pinch in the bottom. Have fun this Summer but don't get caught! Don't cause too much trouble though.

All working alone
But with each other.
Side by side they form
A long line of people.
Capable of building bridges and worlds.
But we can't forget
That each is an individual
With separate goals
And separate roads to follow.

Highlights of the season included the first win over Eagle Grove since 1960 and placing second in the Eagle Grove Invitational. Although they lost to Britt in the Eagle Grove Invitational, the wrestlers beat them in a big dual meet. In their third year of competition in the Big Eight, the Dodgers placed fourth. Dodgers Finish Third in Big Eight

The Fort Dodge Senior High School varsity basketball team, under the direction of head coach Dutch Huseman and assistant coach Dave Cox, compiled an 11-7 record for the 1970-1971 season.

The Dodgers started out the season big, with wins over Cedar Falls and Carrol Kuemper by margins of 19 and 24 points respectively. Things cooled down after that, but the Dodgers came back and finished third in the Big Eight. Highlights of the season include dual wins over Marshalltown and a revenge win over Mason City at Mason City.

Individually, the Dodgers had two members on the All Big Eight honorary teams. Scott VanGundy was elected to the first team and Jim Magnusson was selected for second team honors.

Glen Clark ignores foe and goes up for 2.

I could tell where my friends had been
by the trail
they left behind.

The road they will travel is not, will not and cannot be easy.
Yet the success
depends upon the effort.

Now
I shall try
to follow their steps.
I, also, shall try to find a way to lead those who follow me
down a road worth traveling.

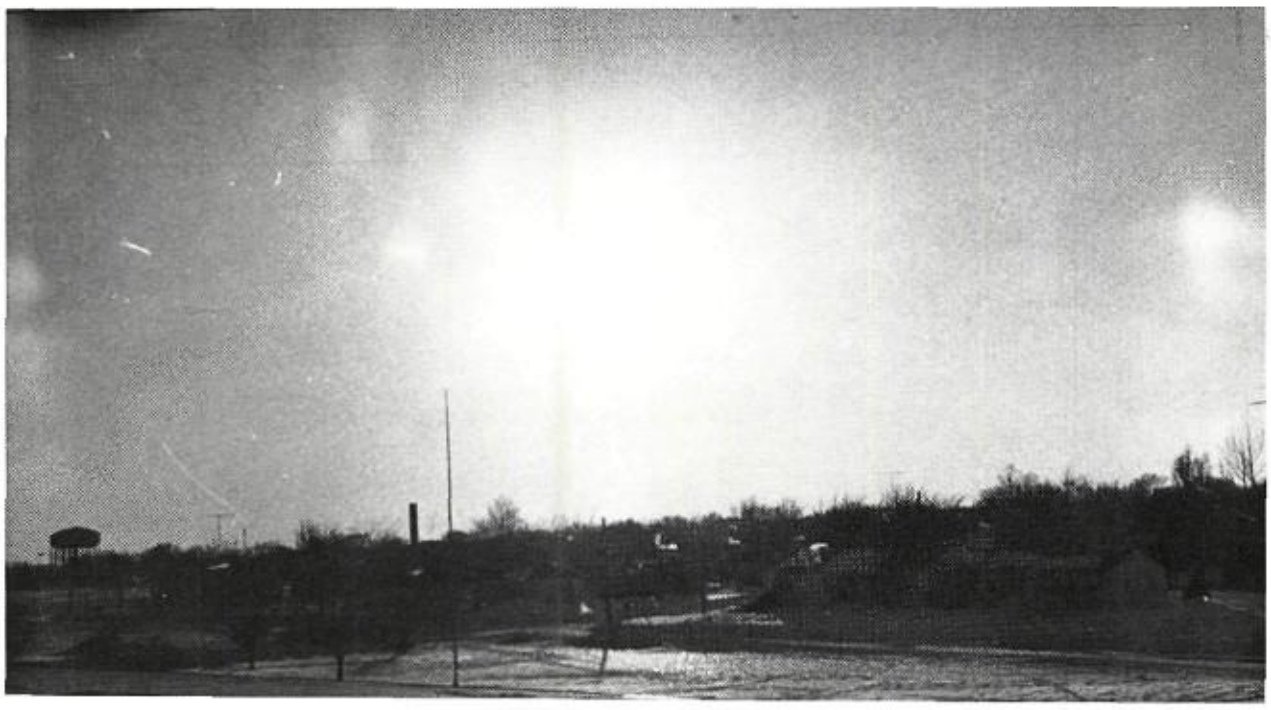
We sought . . .

. . . the concrete facts, a formula for victory, foundations to build hopes upon . . .

We found . . .

. . . patience for those times when the answer came slowly, guidance for the problems that tried our hearts and the strength to live with those that would not be solved.



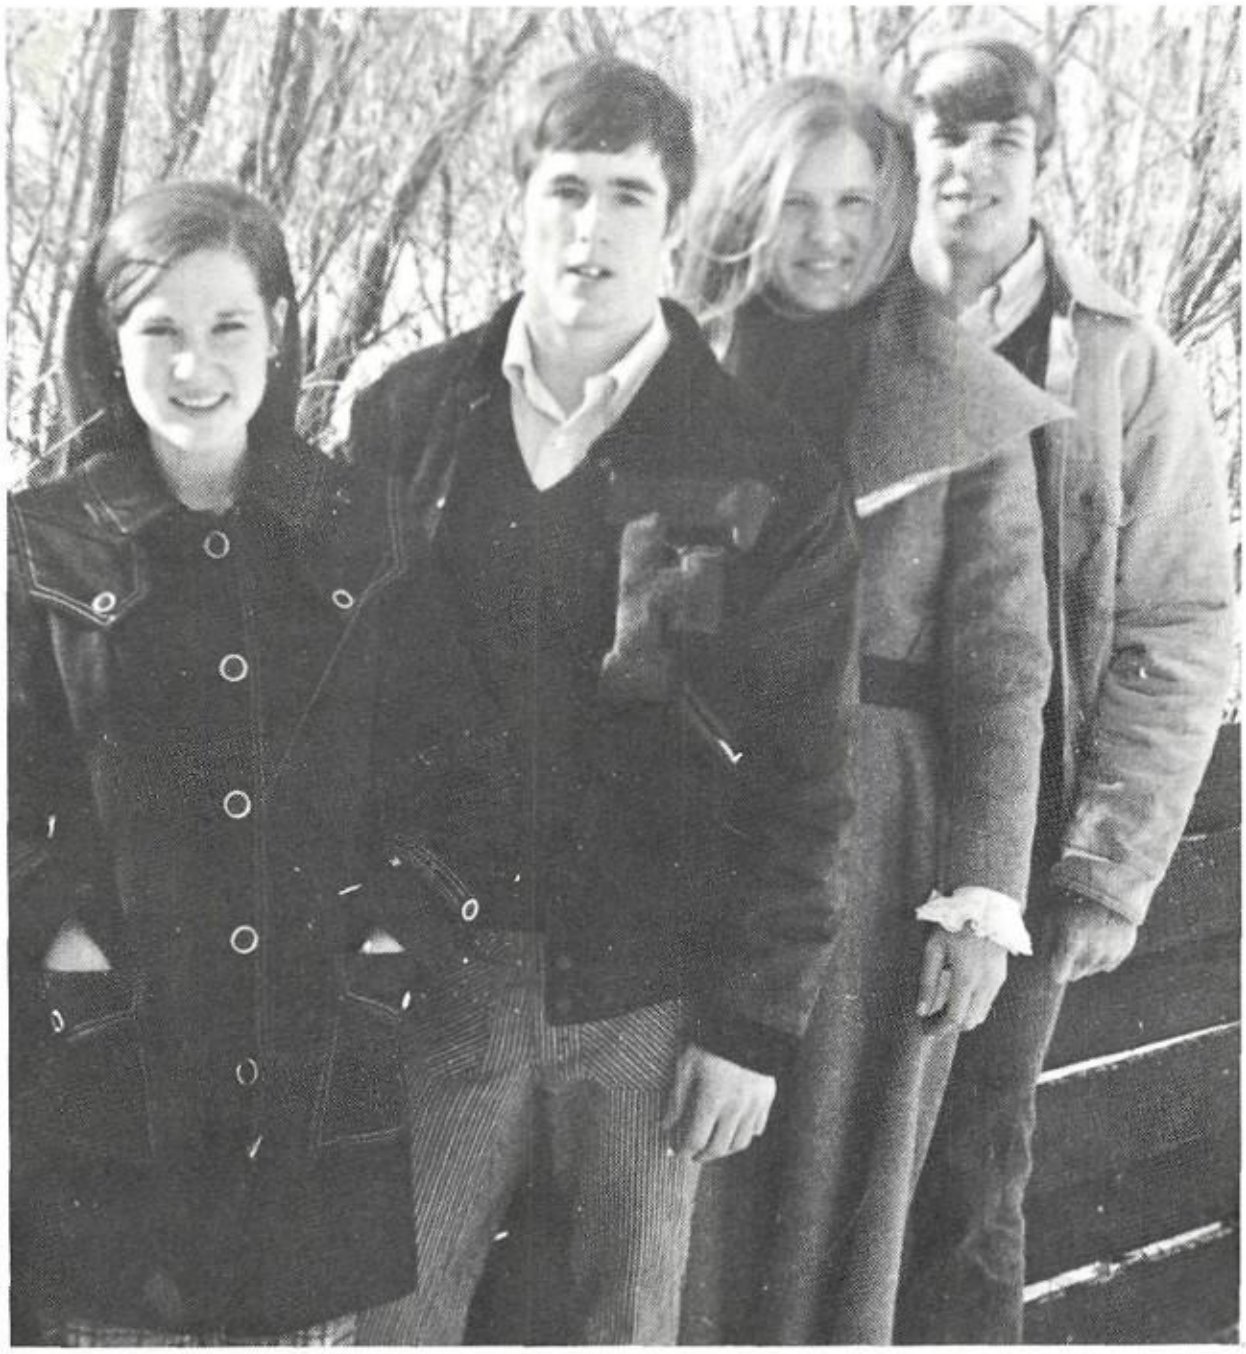
We received . . .

. . . pride through victory, honor in defeat, the solid feel of responsibility accepted and performed.

We knocked . . .

. . . and doorways opened, keys still turn, more doors open, we enter with confidence, we've only just begun.

The Class of 1971



Senior Class officers for 1970-1971 were: Jane Ericksen, treas., Jerry Black, vice-pres., Linda Leege, sec., and Mark Chardoulias, pres.

1971 held many unforgettable moments for seniors at FDSH. For many years the class had been waiting for the moment to be mighty seniors; but now that moment is over. Many lasting memories stretched from the start of the first big football game with "Up Fort Dodgers" to the last strains of "Hail to You Fort Dodge" at graduation.

On that last day seniors recalled their most unforgettable moments of the year which included Homecoming . . . the annual Christmas concert . . . the all-school play "Take Her She's Mine" . . . All-State tryouts . . . cramming for the last finals at the end of the first semester . . . Mr. Bargman's familiar voice on the loudspeaker . . . cheering the guys on to victory . . . swapping senior pictures . . . cutting the daisy chain . . . laughing at seniors in "Pinochio" . . . putting up the "Dodgers are out to win" sign on the windows of the school building . . . signing yearbooks . . . white tassels swinging on red caps at commencement and many more.

Senior week was enjoyed by all: the dinner dance, class day, all night party and graduation were a great success. College entrance exams, pages and pages of applications, and meetings with college representatives seemed to pay off at last. Everyone departed looking for their separate goals in life and all were proud to say, "I am a member of the class of 1971."
